

There has not been such a transaction in Poland yet. Details are revealed by the head of the MCI Capital – highlights in a title Business Insider Polska

09.11.2021

The Polish company RemoteMyApp – cloud gaming provider of the technology thanks to which millions of players around the world have access to their favorite games anytime and anywhere, went into the hands of a global giant. The startup from Szczecin, which cooperates with international corporations, will become the property of Intel Corporation.

– The fact that the global concern has decided to make this investment and, additionally, it is its first such venture in Poland, gives us great satisfaction – says Tomasz Czechowicz in an interview with Business Insider Polska.

– The COVID-19 pandemic had a positive impact on the gaming market, allowing it to grow within a year for which the market would need 2-3 years, he adds.

In his opinion, however, the return to post-COVID normality does not mean that the demand for games will drop.
