He says to Marcel Zatoński: – I have been interested in digitalization for a long time, which was evident in PKO Bank Polski activities. I have spoken publicly of banks: “digitalize or die”. MCI’s strategy assumes that we will invest EUR 25-100 million in medium-sized technology companies and create large players out of them, who will be the target for global private equity funds and strategic investors.

– It is not only about providing money, but also about managerial support in development. MCI has a very competent team with experience in various market segments. I can add a few bricks to all of this as a manager, strategist, innovator and liaison – someone who connects people.
